THE PAULIST FATHERS' MISSION.

FIVE WEEKS OF SPECIAL SERVICES-THE OPEN-ING MASS.

The five weeks' mission of the Paulist Fathers, which will be held in the Church of St. Paul the Apostle, at Sixtleth-st. and Columbus-ave., was begun yesterday morning, the Rev. Walter Elliot, C. S. P., preaching the sermon at high mass, at 11 o'clock. The church, which has a seating ca-pacity of three thousand, was crowded to its utmost and it was estimated by Father Doyle that four thousand persons were present.

Owing to the fact that the church is not large enough to hold all those who would like to attend, arrangements have been made so that cer-tain sections of the parish will have each a week in which to make their devotions. The live weeks have thus been divided. The night service, at 7.30 o'clock, consisting of instruction, rosary, sermon and benediction, will be conducted by the Rev. Alexander P. Doyle.

The first week will be for married women of the

AN UNLUCKY TURN.

From The Cleveland Plain Dealer Stage people love to play practical jokes on ach other. Sometimes the jokes are harmiers, sometimes they have a sting. A Cleveland the-atrical man tells the following little story, in which the joke is of the stinging sort; one in which the tables were turned and the biter was which the joke is of the stinging sort; one in which the tables were turned and the biter was badly bitten.

In the last act of that comedy success, "At Piney Ridge," it is the duty of Mr. Kinzie, who plays Abe Moonlight, to eat a piece of applepie cut from a sample of that favorite American edible by the old hegro mammy. The generous remnant of this "prop," which is the real thing, after the fall of the final curtain is always swooped down upon by the stage hands and soon disappears, much to the chagrin of the hungry actors, who never get a chance at it. Mr. Kinzie, "Mammy Summers" and Miss Davis, who plays the "yaller gai, Susanna," determined to prevent this petty larceny for one week at least. Monday night in Philadelphia the pie went its usual way, and on Tuesday these conspirators, to get even with the scene shifters, put the real cayenne into one side of the pie, placed it in proper position to have the innocent portion cut for Abe, and gleefully waited results. But they all forgot one thing, and that was the uncontrollable instinct of a woman to turn a pie before cutting it, and Miss Cameron, who plays the "old mammy," is no exception to the rule. In the absorption of the scene she forgot the pepper, turned the pie half around, cut out a generous silce from the loaded portion and handed it to Abe. Mr. Kinzie needed no art to enact his red pepper scene that night, and as usual the stage hands gathered in the remnant after the play, while Abe, in a voice thick with tears of regret and red pepper, vowed vengeance

A MURDER MYSTERY CLEARED.

ONE OF THE MEN SUSPECTED OF KILLING JAMES C. PITTS, IN SUMMIT, N. J., MAKES A CONFESSION

Summit, N. J., Jan. 9 (Special) -- George Manshanda, who was arrested early in December on suspicion of being connected with the murder of James C. Pitts, on September 9, at his home, on the Old Stony Hill Road, near Summit, made a confession on Friday afternoon, in which he as the Union County jail, awaiting trial under an the colored housekeeper of Pitts, who was mur-derously assaulted by the persons who allied Pitts. Manshanda says that he and Roesel came to Summit on the Monday preceding the murder, and that they slept in a barn near the Pitts homestead that night. For some reason they postponed the attack until the following Thursday, when they came to Summit on Conductor Jewell's train, as has already been told in The Tribune. They hung has already been told in The Tribune. They hung around the Pitts house until after dark, and on the way to the house Manshanda picked up an ax ano. Rosesi a butcher's gambrel, Manshanda says that they were looking in the window, when Pitts, who was rending, came to the door and opened it. As Pitts stepped out Bosed hit him over the head, Manshanda says that he ran away, and after a few moments Rosesi rejoined him. They waiked to Maplewood, where they took the trolley road to Newark, Manshanda further describes accurately the black mask, tickets and other articles found after the murder, and told where they were thrown. He further said that while he and Rosesi were going along the county road, near Campbell's Pond, in Millburn, they heard some one approaching in a buggy, and they hid. Manshanda says that they did not intend to kill Pitts, but that they heard of his basing money concealed in the house and that they were after it. He says that they did not get a cent, but were frightened away by the cries of Mary Davis. He denies that he struck any of the blows that killed Pitts or that he nit Mary Davis.

Published Jan. 7,

25 CENTS A COPY. The 340 pages of this number em-brace practically the whole range of public topics suitable for treatment in an Almanac. The number is larger in an Almanae. The number is larger than usual, and is especially strong in Governmental and political informa-tion, National and State, and in exact and valuable statistical tables. The Tribune Almanac has always been accorded the rank of the stand-ard publication of its class in America, corresponding to Whittaker's abroadand no effort has been spared to maintain this reputation. As a book of reference it is a marvel, and almost indispensable to intelligent men of
